

The interference created by this mode of broadband would make SSB base stations useless. We rely on SSB to keep open communications with our vessels world wide; not to mention monitoring emergency channels. This type of broadband would end SSB communications as we know it today.